

Bio: Warrick Wilson

Like many of us, I was introduced to music by taking piano lessons as a child. Upon entering high school I picked up the sax.

After a long hiatus, my daughters started band in school which inspired me to pick up my sax again and started playing with local community bands.

After we moved to Austin in 2014, I joined the Austin Civic Wind Ensemble and Band of the Hills, both local community bands.

Since then I have dabbled in a jazz group or two including Armadillo Swing Band.
